

I'm sorry, who's suffocating democracy? If "Stolen Honor" was a documentary that painted George Bush in a negative light, you can bet your booties it would be shown on every network. There would be no outcry, no threats, no boycotts. Michael Moore's load of trash was shown in theaters all over the country. The theater in PA that was scheduled to show "Stolen Honor" was threatened and intimidated. Yup, this is democracy at its worst! The only thing I am sorry about is that Sinclair has no stations in my area. I wouldn't vote for Kerry anyway, but I would be interested in seeing "Stolen Honor."

I think this is a sad, sad day. I might as well have stayed in Cuba.
